

The Library and Information Centre accepts the returns of books that have in error been delivered through the EUDOXUS service to students of the University of the Aegean.

Any student who has wrongly received any book receives a return notification from EUDOXUS to their institutional user account. To return that book, a student must present that book and their Student Registration number to the Library branch. The return is carried out immediately by the Library staff and the student can thereafter make a new request (if they wish to do so).
